

Overall, the layout of mockup-a is more in line with my vision

- The typefaces are too much visually, switch to a more legible typeface for the heading texts
- Have more spacing in the title boxes, the text is too close to the edges and inconsistent with each other
- The colors are pictures are on point!
- For the Textures of sushi page, zoom in on the pictures so that the title makes more sense and it doesn't just look like a menu
  - The layout for the grid is nice, and i like the border color on the squares
- The layout for each section is really clean, I just think there should be more of a differentiation between the first and last page since right now they look exactly the same
- Picture choices are really good! I would just pick between the cartoon vs realistic styles on the home page
- The home tab name might be changed to something more relevant with the content of the page, "home" is too vague
- Love the little cartoons on the headings
